Man's Worst Enemy

Among the worst enemies of man are the insects. Insects are the most numerous and versatile group in the animal kingdom and can be found practically anywhere on earth where life exists.

Insects can live in water on land, above the ground or under the ground. They can feed on all parts of a plant above the surface or attack the roots of a plant below the ground. They can find lodging in the heart of the largest trees or between the surfaces of a leaf or within a tiny leaf stalk.

Every housekeeper in Appomattox knows the scourge of certain insects. Roaches can make life miserable for the woman of the house, while moths may destroy the most valuable clothing or upholstery, if proper precautions are not taken.

While some ants attack dwellings or other structures and may continue their depredations unknown to anyone until the building is ready to collapse, flies, with their disease-bearing proclivities, are not only a nuisance but are a menace to the health of human beings.

The farmers sustains a average annual loss of not less than ten per cent of the value of his crops if he takes no measures to control or check the ravages of insect pests. Weevils, worms, grasshoppers and the live, take their annual toll of he profis of the farm.

The fight goes on continuously. Precautions should be taken by every one to control the insects with which they come in contact and thus help in the general control of such pests.

THE OLD COURT HOUSE

What better gift for the April 9th Anniversary at Appomattox than the welcomed news that the Old Court House itself will be rebuilt by the National Park Service. And we hasten to thank Congressman Watkins M. Abbitt, and all of the civic groups here, in Farmville and Lynchburg and elsewhere, who joined Mr. Abbitt in appealing for this project.

We hope to present with this issue a number of historical articles in connection with Old Appomattox Court House, and "The Sunset of the Confederacy."

It must be remembered that the great event in The McLean House was a meeting to arrange for the "terms of surrender." The Surrender itself took place opposite the Court House, when Gen. John B. Gorden led the glorious veterans of The Army of Northern Virginia up the hill from their last camping ground to lay down their arms. The Court House was the most important building in the old village.

Quite some doing will have to be scheduled before the actual structure will become a reality. Frankly, we would hope for a 1965 date for completion. But, the fact that the decision has been confirmed to go ahead with this project, means well not only for Appomattox, but as a gesture of peace to a war-weary world! Would that there were more symbols like Appomattox, where a lasting peace was made.

On this anniversary week-end, we urge our own people here at Appomattox, to take more interest in the tremendous shrine at our own door, and to increase our efforts to bring more and more visitors in to see the restoration already made, and the site of others to come.

A Sense Of Humor

What is the greatest of gifts, in the field of an individual's personality? In our opinion, the greatest is the sense of humor that produces the contagious smile, the genuine laugh.

A smile and a laugh can relieve what the greatest exertion often fails to accomplish. It can set the mood at a meeting, or in a group, and it can bring about a warm response quicker than anything else.

Have you ever wondered why you enjoy being around certain people, while you dread the sight of others? Maybe it is because you enjoy the company of the former and you enjoy it because they are pleasant and bring you pleasure.

The person with a sense of humor, who can laugh at himself as well as others, possesses a matchless gift. He will live longer, he will get more out of life, and will go further. He can make friends readily, and will usually be good company.

Try cultivating a genuine smile and a genuine affection for people to go along with it, and you will soon be amazed at the result. And if you do not have a finely developed sense of humor, and are all business, for example try cultivating a sense of humor.

Do not put it off! The longer you wait in life the hader it is to develop that neglected sense of humor. And of all the personality traits, the most valuable, by far, (after personal integrity, of course) is the ready smile, the genuine sense of humor.

KNOW THE WEATHER

Can you expect to be hearing thunder and lightning soon? Why do we seldom have thunderheads and thunderstorms in the winter months?

You will soon be hearing the familiar thunder and lightning of spring and summer, if you have not already heard the first rumbles of thunder which herald the approach of 1961's warmer weather.

The longer sunlight and greater heating resulting from it and the position of the earth in the coming months cause hot air to rise and form thunderheads. The greater heat and greater volume of rising, warmed air, cause higher clouds and thunder results from the transfer of electrical overcharges as the natural balance is restored by lightning strikes.

Thunder is the roar created by these electrical discharges, just as a big gun cause its own miniature thunder at the instant of firing.

Did you know Gasoline is Taxed at a Rate 5 Times as High as Diamonds?

IN VIRGINIA, YOU PAY $1.10 TAX ON 10 GALLONS OF GASOLINE

Gasoline taxes will be lowered—if the latest temporary Federal gasoline tax increase expires on June 30th as scheduled by the 1959 Federal Highway Act.

Along with all good citizens, we are in favor of building the roads that the motoring public needs. But in the last 10 years alone, Federal and State taxes nationwide on gasoline have skyrocketed 51%—skyrocketed to a point where gasoline, a basic commodity, is actually taxed at a rate five times as high as luxuries like diamonds and mink coats.

Must gasoline taxes be so high? Most people believe that gasoline taxes are high because the money is needed to pay for our national highway program. This is not so.

The fact is that out of every highway-user tax dollar collected last year by the Federal government, more than 40 cents was diverted to non-highway purposes.

If these highway-user tax revenues were spent for highways—as they should be—gasoline taxes could be lowered, and the highway program given a boost.

In fact, the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1959 provides that when the added temporary Federal gasoline tax expires on June 30th, 1961, as scheduled, some $802 million a year in highway-user taxes—now diverted to the U. S. Treasury's general fund—will instead be deposited in the Highway Trust Fund.

As a result, if the latest Federal temporary gasoline tax increase expires on June 30th as scheduled—the national highway program will actually get $225 million more each year than it now receives from the latest Federal temporary gasoline tax increase.

In January of this year, after an exhaustive 2-year survey of national transportation policy, a special U. S. Senate study group confirmed the wisdom of this decision.

This will be good news for you. You will be able to enjoy a steadily improving highway system, at a lower gasoline tax-rate.

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT TODAY'S HIGH GASOLINE TAXES

- In Virginia, you pay $1.10 tax on 10 gallons of gasoline.
- You pay 11¢ tax a gallon—4¢ in Federal taxes plus 7¢ in State taxes.
- Gasoline is taxed at a rate 5 times as high as diamonds.
- The average Virginia motor vehicle owner pays $97 a year in gasoline taxes.
- Since 1951 there have been three increases in the Federal gasoline tax alone.
- In the last 10 years, gasoline taxes nationwide have skyrocketed 51%—yet the national-average price of gasoline itself has risen only 5.5% during the same period.

BLUE MOLD DUE TO ATTACK TOBACCO PIANT BEDS SOON

Virginia tobacco growers can expect blue mold again this year, as sure as the south wind blows. Plant pathologists at Virginia Polytechnic Institute say the dread tobacco disease has already shown up in Georgia. And if tobacco growers don't stand ready to treat their plant beds as soon as the plants are dimesize, the fungus-caused disease can build up to epidemic proportions in a short time.

The reason the disease can spread like wildfire is that spores or seed of the fungus are carried in the wind for many miles.

Tobacco growers are well-briefed on what materials to use to prevent the disease. The main thing the pathologists say is to not grow careless.

Social Security Information

By C. Leonard Smith, Jr.

Some 687,000 disabled workers, their wives, and minor children are now receiving monthly social security disability benefits totaling $51 million a month. Many more are now drawing benefits as a result of the recent change in the law providing payments to disabled workers under age 50, and to their dependents.

The payment of social security disability insurance benefits is an important step in the expansion and improvement of the social security system. Twenty-five years ago, when the original social security law was enacted it provided only monthly old-age insurance benefits for workers in commerce and industry. In 1939, the law was amended and monthly benefits for the families of retired and deceased workers were provided. The program became known as "Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance". In 1956, when the Act was amended to provide monthly disability insurance benefits, Title II was again changed to read "Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance".

Today, the Social Security Act provides monthly benefit protection for disabled workers and their families, just the same as for retired workers and their families, and for the families of deceased workers.

To qualify for disability insurance benefits, a worker must be disabled for any substantial gainful work, and he must have worked for a sufficient length of time under social security program.

Only a severe and long-lasting disability counts. The term "disability" is defined in the social security" is as "inability to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or to be long-continued and indefinite duration". Under this definition, a person may be seriously disabled and still have a capacity for engaging in some kind of substantial work. If so, he may not be able to get social security disability insurance benefits.

The work requirements for entitlement to social security disability benefits are stricter than the normal requirements for old-age and survivors insurance. In addition to meeting the disability requirements, a disabled worker must have had at least five years of work under social security in the ten years prior to the onset of his disability. The work need not have been full time or steady, but it must have performed in employment or self-employment covered by the social security law.

To obtain specific information about his possible rights under the social security disability program when a worker becomes seriously disabled, he or a member of his family should contact the district social security office located at 112 Lanchorne Road, Lynchburg, or see the representative who is at the Courthouse in Appomattox on the fourth Monday of each month at 10:00 A. M.

NEW FARM PROGRAM

Secretary of Agriculture, Orville L. Freeman moved quietly today following the signing into law of the emergency feed grain program to put the legislation into action in one field

The Secretary announced that three area meetings with field personnel of the U. S. Department of Agriculture would be held within the next five days in major feed-producing areas of the Nation, and that he would attend the first of the three meetings

Shortly after the President signed emergency feed grain legislation the Secretary said meetings would be held Thursday, March 23, in Omaha, Friday, March 24, in Denver, and Monday, March 27, in Atlanta. Assistant Secretary James T. Ralph will speak at the Denver meeting and Under Secretary Charles S. Murphy at Atlanta.

Attending will be representatives of USDA officers in 43 States, including State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committeemen and State ASC office technicians, as well as State Extension Service personnel.

Secretary Freeman said the legislation represents a workable response of the Congress to the request of President Kennedy to stop the drift toward chaos in the feed grain and livestock sectors of the economy.

"I am sure that farmers appreciate the action and will cooperate to make the program effective. With about 3 billion bushels of feed grains in government loan and inventory stocks, representing an investment of more than $4 billion, it is time for action in the interest of the farmer and other taxpayers.

"Unless the present drift is stopped, it promises to become only worse and threatens the entire feed grain and livestock industry. It ultimately threatens the consumer as well.

"These stocks will be reduced by the new program, but they will still be large. Consumers can rest assured that their interest will be protected through continuing abundant production of meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products."

In general, the new program provides for payments to producers who divert corn and grain sorghum acreage to a conserving use. Only those corn and grain sorghum producers who participate will be eligible for support prices for 1961 on their normal production of these two crops this year. In addition, corn and grain sorghum producers will be eligible for support on the other feed grains (oats, barley, and rye), only if they participate in the feed grain program.

Half of the estimated total payment for a farm will be offered to the producer as soon as he signifies that he will cooperate in the program.

Participating producers will reduce their corn and grain sorghum acreage by a minimum of 20 percent below their average for the 1959-60 period.

For diverting acreages equal to 20 percent of their base or 20 acreas, whichever is larger, producers will be eligible for a payment equal to 50 percent of their normal production on their diverted acreage times the county support price.

"Corn and grain sorghum producers in the short time remaining before planting in most areas must have the facts on which to base their decision on participating in this voluntary program.

A report of their labors there, is most encouraging. Mrs. Robt. Pore, of Pamplin, says she had the pleasure of attending the first service in this lovely church on March 25. She continues: "Our pastor, the members there, and many of the Appomattox members worked hard doing most or all of the painting and repair work on the church, and the Lord blessed their efforts. Pastor Stout before coming to take charge of the Appomattox and Cumberland churches here had formerly served in the mission fields of Peru, South America.
